David Yurman (<http://hypebeast.com/tags/david-yurman/>) has teamed up with the Mode Design Group to produce a special bottle stopper designed for the Patrón (<http://hypebeast.com/tags/patron/>) Añejo bottle. Released just in time for the Holiday 2013 season, the dagger-shaped stopper is die-cast in solid metal and electroplated with both gunmetal and 24k gold. The intricate carved details adorning the hilt are inspired by 18th century samurai swords and reflect Yurman's appreciation for unique and rare cultural artifacts. This is the second such bottle accessory Mode Design Group has produced for Patrón with the first being this elegant leather bottle case (<http://www.modedesigngroup.com/patron-spirits.php>).

Why is a samurai sword at all relevant to Patron or tequila in general? It looks dope af but makes no sense conceptually.
